Accession 96:031 (Box 3 (prints) and Box 34 (nitrate negatives))

circa 1920s

161 images (115 prints and 46 nitrate negatives)

This accession consists of images of campus buildings and views and special events such as a May Day pageant and military parade; it includes several photographs of construction of a shed-like structure, perhaps at the home of E.T. Reed. The photos were probably assembled by E.T. Reed, College Editor, for use in various college publications.

The collection consists of b/w prints and nitrate negatives; original nitrate negatives are included in the accession for about half of the prints. There are also about 10 nitrate negatives for which no prints are included; scanned laser prints of the most notable two of these are stored with the prints.

Most of the prints and about half of the nitrate negatives were assigned individual item numbers (985-72-1 thru 985-72-91) by the Horner Museum. Prints of the same image have in some cases been assigned different item numbers. The remaining images have not been numbered and are grouped together by similar format and subject.

Numbered Prints (some with accompanying nitrate negatives as indicated):

- 985-72-1 to 4 Tennis courts in the west (MU) quadrangle.
985-72-5 to 6 Fairbanks Hall in left foreground and tennis courts in the west (MU) quadrangle.
- 985-72-7 Woman at entrance to Women's Building with Snell Hall (now Ballard Extension hall) and Home Economics (now Milam Hall) in the background.
- 985-72-8 to 9 Tennis courts in the west (MU) quadrangle.
985-72-10 Cars parked on west (MU quadrangle); Langton Hall in background; before construction of Memorial Union.
- 985-72-11 to 12 Entrance to "Farm Mechanics" building (now Gilmore Hall).
985-72-13 Cars parked on west (MU quadrangle); Langton Hall in background; before construction of Memorial Union; nitrate negative and 2 prints.
- 985-72-14 Women's Building.
985-72-15 Home Economics (now Milam Hall).
985-72-16 to 17 Mines Building (now Batcheller Hall); one nitrate negative and 3 prints.
- 985-72-18 to 19 Walkway to Graf Hall.
985-72-20 Commerce Hall nearing completion.
985-72-21 Bandstand.
985-72-22 to 23 Library (now Kidder Hall).
985-72-24 Cadets and others at bandstand.
985-72-25 to 26 View to west on Campus Way from roof of Apperson Hall (?).
985-72-27 Library (now Kidder Hall).
985-72-28 Covell Hall.
985-72-29 to 30 Cadets and others at bandstand event.
985-72-31 View to west on walkway/street south of Benton Hall; nitrate negative and print.
- 985-72-32 to 35 Students in east (Library) quadrangle (between class periods?).
985-72-36 to 37 Bell Field during a football game; nitrate negative and 2 prints.
985-72-38 Bell Field during a homecoming football game; nitrate negative and print.
- 985-72-39 Bell Field during homecoming football game; nitrate negative and print.
- 985-72-40 to 42 Bell Field during a football game; nitrate negatives and prints.
985-72-43 Bell field during a homecoming football game; nitrate negative and print.
- 985-72-44 Marathon run in Bell Field.
985-72-45 to 46 Cadets marching under temporary entrance sign "Come Often, 1922" located on Jefferson Way and 15th street; nitrate negatives and prints.
- 985-72-47 to 48 Cadets drilling in front of Waldo Hall; nitrate negatives and prints.
985-72-49 to 51 Cadets drill on lower campus.
985-72-52 to 54 Cadet band on lower campus.

985-72-55 to 56	Elm-lined path through lower campus; downtown Corvallis in background.
985-72-57 to 58	Crowd on lower campus.
985-72-59	Cadets drilling on lower campus.
985-72-60 to 71	6 views of military parade down 9th Street.
985-72-72	Coastal beach with jetty in background.

60 images

prints

Images of various subjects and formats assembled for use in University or OSU Press publications. Most notable are images of the Memorial Union, commencement, a campus aerial view, and Robert Packwood speaking with students. The accession also includes images published in the Studies in Zoology (no. 10), Determination of Some Predator Species by Field Signs, by Arthur S. Einerson.

Box 11

Photographs published in Oregon State Monographs Studies in Zoology, no. 10 -- Determination of some Predator Species by Field Signs by Arthur S. Einerson, 1956; see PUB 5-35b reel 1 for publication. The following numbers and descriptions are the figure numbers and captions from the publication.

- 1 A point commonly struck by birds of prey is that just below the crown of the victim's head, at the point of arrow. Evidence of the surface wound is almost invisible on this pheasant hen.
- 2 A hen pheasant's leg severed at the ankle joint, which healed satisfactorily but handicapped the bird in defense against predators. She was taken by a red-tailed hawk as a result.
- 3 A deformed pheasant leg bone caused by hunting wound. The bird was killed by a Cooper's hawk.
- 4 Regurgitated owl pellets. Note parts of feet, feathers, bill, and bones of a pheasant hen.
- 5 Typical horned owl treatment of kill. Neck meat has a high preference rating followed by breast and muscle meat.
- 6 Skeleton of a cock pheasant from which all the meat has been leisurely removed by a horned owl. Notice the neck has hardly a morsel of meat left between the vertebrae.

- 7 Remains of a banded hen pheasant eaten by a horned owl.
- 8 Pheasant hen hidden under a canopy of dune grass by a sharp-shinned hawk. It is typical of the sharpshin to feed on the kill in dense cover. Only careful search will reveal these kills.
- 9 A bobwhite quail taken from a sharp-shinned hawk before the dressing was complete. Head has been removed but feet are intact.
- 10 A valley quail upon which a sharp-shinned hawk was feeding. Note that head, wings, and feet have been removed. All kills are not as thoroughly dressed. Entrails have been partially removed in the first acts of feeding.
- 11 A male pheasant struck down by a Cooper's hawk with signs of the usual plucking technique beginning on the neck.
- 12 A neatly plucked leg of a hen pheasant showing the thoroughness with which the Cooper's hawk dresses its victim.
- 13 With little discrimination, the redtail pulled chunks of meat, feathers, and bones from the breast of this hen pheasant.
- 14 A hen pheasant kill, the remainder of which has been either eaten or scattered in a stubble field.
- 15 Jay (right) and crow (left) attacks on eggs are almost identical. Other observations should be made to determine the predator.
- 16 Raven's attack on sage grouse eggs. (Photo by Reasons.)
- 17 Naturally hatched eggs showing the large end still attached by the membrane.
- 18 This shows how skunks attack pheasant eggs. The surfeited skunk did not complete the attacks on one egg.
- 19 A large skunk may crush the eggs marginally in lapping out egg contents. This more pronounced when the egg is well incubated and less liquid.
- 20 The specialized incisor teeth of the gray digger or ground squirrel are closely spaced and, therefore, make one hole. In this example the marks of both the upper and lower incisors are obvious.
- 21 Typical method of ground squirrel depredations on pheasant eggs.

- 22 A morning's kill of a domestic cat. She was training four kittens and hunted aggressively.
- 23 A male pheasant killed and eaten in the usual manner of cats. The dismembered bird was scattered over a wide area. Its parts were collected for this photograph
- 24 The stomach contents of this cat aggregated 14 ounces, made up mostly of 1 valley quail. The cat weighed about 6 pounds. (Photo by Tom Onsdorff.)
- 25 Evidence of fox feeding, showing the pulled leg tendons on a cock pheasant. Their feeding habits usually leave the toes of a big bird in a cramped or drawn up position.

1952-1996

3200 images

35 mm negatives and contact sheets; b/w prints

Organized by general subjects such as sports, student life, buildings and academics, the images primarily depict students and faculty engaged in various activities on campus.

Many of the photos are undated and unidentified. In addition to b/w prints and negatives, there are also color slides and contact sheets in this accession.

Most of the printed contact sheets have an assigned number between 100 and 399 that corresponds to a subject indexing system developed by the University Publications Office for identification and matching of the sheets to their corresponding 35 mm negatives.

The key to this system was not part of this transfer; however, the 35 mm negative sleeves have been retained in original numerical order.
