

OSU's Photographic Archive: Technology and Society, 1850-1950

Julia Bradshaw, Assistant Professor, School of Arts and Communication

Dwaine Plaza, Professor of Sociology, Associate Dean in the College of Liberal Arts

Larry Landis, Director, Special Collections and Archives Research Center OSU Libraries and Press

Since the 1830s, the photograph has become one of the most important methods for documenting people, events, and feelings. Today we are familiar with the "Selfie" that digitally immortalizes us into a pose that is supposed to be empowering about the way we look. In this panel presentation a photographer, a sociologist and an archivist will discuss the evolution of photographic methods and the context for reading these changes over time.

MONDAY, MAY 2

5PM at the Special Collections and Archives Research Center,
5th floor of the Valley Library

Free and open to the public
Lecture followed by refreshments

Collections at the Center is a new series from the Special Collections and Archives Research Center inviting the OSU campus to engage with materials from our vast collections through expert lectures, participant discussion, and close observation of historic objects.
